

The Spaces In Between: What We Can Learn from Unscripted Moments
Host: Jessica Sokolowski

- 19:03:02 From Aynne Johnston To Everyone:
Kingston, Ontario
- 19:03:14 From Stan Baines To Everyone:
Hi everyone and welcome! Stan from Rockland Ontario!
- 19:03:20 From Ortal Green To Everyone:
Good morning everyone :)
I am from Melbourne, Oz
- 19:03:30 From Lindsay To Everyone:
From the traditional territory of the Lekwungen speaking people, known as Victoria BC
- 19:03:33 From Natasha Baines To Everyone:
Rockland Ontario
- 19:03:35 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:
Welcome everyone! I am in Beckwith 😊 Outside of Ottawa
- 19:03:51 From Sarah Clarke To Everyone:
Hello I'm Sarah calling in from Ottawa, Canada
- 19:03:58 From Kathy Browning To Everyone:
Hello, from Kathy Browning, Sudbury. ON
- 19:04:33 From Gerard McNeil To Everyone:
From Halifax
- 19:10:14 From Cael To Everyone:
I'm in Ottawa!
- 19:12:20 From CNIC To Everyone:
It's also a play!
- 19:21:00 From Lindsay To Everyone:
My mom might say, I'm not a particle, I'm a wave... 😊
- 19:22:07 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
First thoughts, our perspective is vital to how circumstances affect us. Seeing ourselves as part of a larger whole gives purpose, place and provision.
- 19:23:24 From CNIC To Everyone:
I have used this book as a reference, both in life and research:
https://www.goodreads.com/en/book/show/456514.Scripts_People_Live
- 19:25:21 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
Jessica, my career was formed in those unscripted times of playful exploration.
- 19:26:32 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:
Fred - thank you for this. I am trying to follow in these footsteps
- 19:27:33 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:
Yes! Lindsay I love the forest! Nature is a space for me as well 😊
- 19:27:36 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
And a wandering path instead of a straight sidewalk?
- 19:27:51 From CNIC To Everyone:
Space for transitioning
- 19:29:34 From Kathy Browning To Everyone:
Nice idea Lindsay to transition through nature to inside your home.
- 19:32:09 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:

- Aynne - I love this idea of living life like a “run-on sentence”.... That describes it perfectly
- 19:39:06 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
What would 500 smart phone flashlights illuminate a stage?
- 19:39:27 From CNIC To Stan Baines(Privately):
I also lost the chat, can you save it at the end?
- 19:39:35 From Stan Baines To CNIC(Privately):
Oh you betcha
- 19:39:51 From CNIC To Stan Baines(Privately):
keep hosting
- 19:40:33 From Ortal Green To Everyone:
We are human being, but we forgot it along the way. At some point, we became human doing. And therefore we think we have to do things all the time. We measure ourselves by what we do, instead of giving us time to just be.
- 19:41:45 From Lindsay To Everyone:
Yes Ortal - let's remind one another the value of Being Here Now.
- 19:42:42 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
Dean, as an educator, my greatest times of learning for myself and for the students was when we pursued something ‘outside’ of my planned lesson or we reacted to a life/ community event, embedding the learning.
- 19:44:14 From CNIC To Everyone:
journey not result
- 19:47:01 From Lindsay To Everyone:
or maybe we are following our habits
- 19:47:17 From Sarah Clarke To Everyone:
It seems to me that the idea of fully scripted lives is founded in the attitudes of the past. The old folks used to say, “The Devil finds work for idle hands.” We might have interpreted as “You need to be doing active work rather than passive work”.
- 19:48:53 From Ortal Green To Everyone:
This is an interesting point, Sarah.
- 19:51:27 From Ortal Green To Everyone:
It is a matter of a mindset. Whether we are open up to surprising, not planned things. Whether we are willing to just flow, with whatever comes. I find that I have this mindset during holidays.
- 19:52:35 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:
Kathy, I like this idea of becoming “uncomfortable” - this is where we grow
- 19:53:45 From Kathy Browning To Everyone:
Definitely....and this can be tough.

19:54:01 From Fred Harwood (Richmond BC) To Everyone:
Carl Leggo

LITTORAL

the alders grow transparent
as light stored in leaves seeps out shadows are spelled or dispelled,

everywhere, a marbled lime swirl

I will gather scraps of words for a patchwork quilt to keep me warm

on October evenings on the patio with cranberry tea while geese call the rhythms of elsewhere, earth and sky yoked by tethers of light

like a meadow of wildflowers

on the littoral edge of the sea

19:55:19 From CNIC To Everyone:
Thanks Natasha!

19:57:12 From Sarah Clarke To Everyone:
I notice that the work 'script' is a hard sounding word while 'story' sounds much softer.
Perhaps 'unstoried' would be more comfortable.

19:57:12 From jessicasokolowski To Everyone:
Thank you 😊 That was beautiful

19:57:15 From Kathy Browning To Everyone:
Great story Lindsay!

19:57:22 From Ortal Green To Everyone:
Thank you for sharing this beautiful story, Lindsay

19:57:50 From Gillian Judson To Everyone:
I have been drinking tea and thinking and listening--it's exactly what I needed today
Thank you ❤️

19:58:14 From Gillian Judson To Everyone:

You did a beautiful job tonight Jessica ❤️

19:58:35 From Lindsay To Everyone:

Much appreciation for this whole conversation. Thank you for initiating Jessica.

19:59:03 From Ortal Green To Everyone:

Thank you for a wonderful session :)

19:59:05 From Aynne Johnston To Everyone:

Thank you everyone!

19:59:45 From Kathy Browning To Everyone:

Thank you.

19:59:56 From Natasha Baines To Everyone:

Have a great night!